

This Week in NY

Edited by
Andrew Friscano
thisweek.ny@timeout.com
@AndrewFriscano

Doin' it bunny style

This ain't your mama's Easter celebration! Step inside the terrifying—and terrifyingly fun—Full Bunny Contact. By Geraldine Campbell

Come, little rabbits, into the demented world of Full Bunny Contact, a four-day fete from Nightmare Haunted House creator Tim Haskell. It promises to be just as creepy as the Halloween experience, but with scary, bunny-clad men subbing for serial killers. (Okay, so maybe it's creepier.)

At the center of the alternative Easter fantasy for adults is a 20-by-20-foot steel cage, where two unarmed contestants participate in an American Gladiators-style egg hunt against three big, bad, jousting-stick-armed hares (costumed actors—that was obvious, right?).

The less athletically inclined can feast on food-truck eats, guzzle an adult beverage, and try their hand at egg decorating and other carnival-style game booths, many of which require no ability whatsoever. Our favorites? You only had to ask.

Hare-y Up

Relive one of Aesop's most famous fables by strapping on a 40-pound faux tortoise shell and racing against a kid in a hopsack down a 25-foot track.

Take a picture with the creepy Easter bunny

Why wouldn't you bring home a souvenir photo of yourself and a dude dressed as a rabbit? It's like the mall version, only his costume won't be cute and fluffy, and he'll lurk, leer and mutter unnervingly to himself. (Shiver.)

Chicken Scratch

Test your tic-tac-toe acumen against a guy in a chicken suit (starting to pick up on a trend?). Be warned: He has a feather and he will tickle you with it.

Little Bunny FuFu's Revenge

This game's a bit like T-ball meets Whac-A-Mole: You bop stuffed toy rabbits with a mallet (while wearing bunny ears). Hit one into a basket and win a prize.

For more Easter events, visit timeout.com/newyork

Full Bunny Contact is at the Clemente, 107 Suffolk St between Delancey and Rivington Sts (fullbunnycontact.com). Times vary. $10–$60; games $3–$10 each. Thu 17–Sun 20.